

Haiku a Day

O lamp, how you shine

A table of books, waiting

Endless reading waits

Issue 47: May 2009

St. Joshua Norton Press
Mathom House in Midtown | The People's Republic of Ames

A bit late this month — I was off at the 2009 AFS and Kerberos Best Practices workshop (one of my talks was 27 slides in five minutes and thirty-nine seconds) last week, and I spent a couple extra days wandering around San Francisco. Conversely, I now have a ton of photos to upload and this issue to finish up and get out the door.

Download this and previous HADs at the website, so you can print out your own (DIY, yeah!) or if you want me to send you one, send me your address, and maybe a stamp if you are feeling nice. Or send me something you've made — trades always appreciated, postcards are nice too.

1 May 2009

Workers of the world
Unite! You have nothing to Lose but your sorrow.

2 May 2009

A sunny morning
At the depot, tasty food
Yay, Farmer's Market

3 May 2009

Sunday afternoon
The park loud, people biking
I smile, happy

25 May 2009

I tear you apart
O creaky bottom bracket
You quiet a bit

26 May 2009

It's doughnuts we seek
A meeting gone on too long
We do not find them

27 May 2009

I love short work weeks
They are so good we should have
Them every week

28 May 2009

Where is that book at?
I know for sure I own it
But it's in no box

29 May 2009

Conference next week
Guess I should write my talk then Procrastination

30 May 2009

Errands all day long
At least I was productive
And got in a nap

31 May 2009

The talk, now finished
Needs a lot of practice runs.
Stay strong, my poor throat

4 May 2009

Somewhere is a box
In it, a part that I need
Someday, I'll find it

5 May 2009

I lean on a shelf
It shifts, some books shuffle down
I should not do that

6 May 2009

In a building sits
A room of sand, unfinished
Waiting to be used

7 May 2009

O Mystery Jar
What secrets are you keeping
Hidden in my fridge?

8 May 2009

Water soft, ice hard
Both conspire to destroy
Michigan's roadways

9 May 2009

This cord, twisted hard,
What monkey put it away?
That monkey was me.

10 May 2009

Three times I have looked
Where something should be, later
It appears right there

11 May 2009

Seriously, dust
Where the hell do you come from?
I so hate sneezing

12 May 2009

Uploads take too long
Stupid pipe, be more faster
My data must go!

13 May 2009

With a flop it goes
Scrambled eggs falling aren't bad
But hot sauce stains well

14 May 2009

Nearly half way through
The month of May, flying by
Will soon be over

15 May 2009

Towering over
Dishes stacked ominously
The sink grows distressed

16 May 2009

Brave cyclists roaming
Finding junk from far and wide
Cleaning up the roads

17 May 2009

Polo rocked today
Things made sense, I scored a goal
And I didn't crash

18 May 2009

Boxes, bags to move
A car, stuffed full, lumbers on Back and forth, a lot

19 May 2009

Kimchee on two days
Is there anything better
I do not think so

20 May 2009

Why do you not run?
Init says you should restart.
I hate this machine

21 May 2009

Warm weather settles
And collectively a sigh
Flows across the land

22 May 2009

Late at the wedding
Limbered up, I show all the Universal dance

23 May 2009

You're in a code maze
Twisty passages, alike
Bends straighten, make sense

24 May 2009

Two goals at polo
A goal three weeks in a row
It's kinda scary
